R&A Program Manager- Data Operations Analysis

Description

About this role:

We are seeking an associate with strong process improvement, data analysis and communication skills to join the Content and Research Excellence (CRE) organization within Gartner's Research and Advisory (R&A) business unit. This role will partner with a range of CRE leaders who manage teams of functional experts (content strategists, writers, editors, visual designers, and program managers) to collect (and in some cases develop new measures), reconcile and analyze multiple data sets to help improve the operating productivity and the quality of team outputs. Reporting to the VP of Topic Sensing, this role will also join a team that designs and builds demand sensing tools to support senior leaders who plan and manage Gartner's content and topic coverage.
